August 2017 Newsletter

President's Krausening

By Andrew Mitchell

August is here and I hope you're enjoying the festivals, fairs, and backyard BBQs. With all of the celebration and partying, this is one of the best times of year to share your homebrew with friends and family. If you're like me, your homebrew stock is starting to dwindle and you're ramping up your brewing schedule to restock your fridge with richer, maltier beers to enjoy during the impending crisp fall evenings. The annual SNOB homebrew competition, Son of Brewzilla, is less than 3 months away and now is the perfect time to start brewing your lagers and higher gravity competition entries.

This past month was the 12th annual Ohio Brew Week in Athens, Ohio. In addition to town-wide craft beer tap takeovers, the weeklong event also included the OBW Homebrew Competition. 5 BJCP-certified SNOBS judges volunteered and of course brought along a few entries as well. Every SNOB brought home at least one medal, totaling 18 medals and honorable mentions. Mike Ontolchik took home the 3rd overall best of show with a Flanders Red Ale "Stupid Sexy Flanders". Jessica Ihms took home the 2nd overall best of show with a Sahti "Finnish Line". Jessica's unusual, historic style Sahti was enjoyed so much by the judges that the brewmaster of Little Fish Brewing Company has asked her to brew her recipe at their commercial brewery in Athens. Congratulations Mike and Jessica for your well-deserved accolades! Way to go SNOBs!

In other SNOB member news, congratulations are in order for Cara Baker for passing her final exam and graduating from the prestigious American Brewer's Guild: Intensive Brewing Science and Engineering Program. This program is highly technical and very difficult. It culminates in a weeklong lab/brewery training in Vermont with some of the most highly skilled professionals in the industry. The final exam takes a ridiculous 3.5 hours and passing is an amazing achievement that we should all be very proud of Cara for.

Our upcoming August 7th monthly meeting will include a brief discussion & sampling of triticale beers as well as a technical presentation by Andy Tveekrem, Brewmaster of Market Garden Brewery. Triticale is a huskless wheat/rye hybrid that is typically used flaked/unmalted by homebrewers. Haus Malts of Cleveland recently malted a batch and asked me and Mike Ontolchik to test brew a few small homebrew batches. We'll be sharing a Hefeweizen, American Wheat, and Saison at the meeting that were brewed with ~40%-60% malted triticale. Our technical speaker is a founding member of SNOB and a great resource for club members looking for brewing advice from homebrewing up to larger commercial brewing scales. Andy's presentation will be focused on the evolving role of science and technology in brewing. Andy always gives an entertaining and information-packed presentation. You don't want to miss this meeting!

Our next monthly Night Out will be held on Monday August 14th (the week after our August meeting) at 6:30-ish pm at Saucy Brew Works at the corner of Detroit Ave and West 29th in the Hingetown neighborhood of Cleveland. Saucy is one of several new breweries to open in Cleveland this year. I haven't heard a single negative review from fellow SNOBs that have visited and I'm very much looking forward to sampling their beers and New Haven-style pizza. We've reserved the upstairs lounge area to congregate we'll be given happy hour beer prices ($1-off) from 4pm-close. In case you haven't been there yet, it's worth noting that there are separate lines for beer/drinks and food. Brewmaster Eric Anderson has a background in microbiology and is a graduate of the Siebel Institute of Technology's Master Brewing Program. Eric has frequented SNOB meetings and events for years and will be on hand to show us around and answer questions.

For those interested in taking their BJCP certification status to the next level, Paul Shick will be hosting a written exam on November 5th. Certified judges who have previously scored a minimum of 80 on the tasting exam are eligible to take this written exam. More details on the certification process can be found at bjcp.org/examcenter.php. In the 8 weeks leading up to the exam Paul will be offering a weekly study course to help prepare those who interested in improving their scores. Dates and locations of the study sessions will be announced soon, once they have been finalized.

Most SNOB monthly meetings are scheduled on the 1st Monday of the month. Since the first Monday in September is a holiday we are instead having our September meeting on August 28th. The technical presentation will be given by Greg Irving. Greg is a former SNOB officer, Son of Brewzilla Organizer, and winner of several homebrew competitions including last year's inaugural "Bragging Rights" competition put on by Platform Brewing Company. Greg will be talking to us about an alternative hopping technique called "Mash hopping".

SNOBtoberfest (our largest annual campout) is taking place once again at the Brooklyn Exchange Cabin at Hinckley Reservation on September 22nd-24th. The cabin is located at 2400 State Road in Hinckley. The weekend promises to be filled with an excessively large bonfire, dozens of kegs of homebrews, and enough smoked meat to feed an army. The cabin includes scout-style bunk beds, but you are also welcome to bring tents, campers, teepees, or whatever you'd like to unroll your sleeping bag in. Members are encouraged to bring homebrews to share with everyone, as well as a side dish to compliment the club-provided meats. The facility is quite large and includes an oven, refrigerator, indoor dining hall, large outdoor pavilion, and fire pit. Even if you are unable to attend for the entire weekend, I highly recommend stopping by for at least one evening to socialize and share good stories and brews. This event is open free of charge to all PAID snob members and their guests. "Pay up you cheapskates!" – Ace, club treasurer.

The last item I'd like to address is the upcoming Son of Brewzilla Homebrew competition to be held at Fat Heads Production Brewery on October 28th. SoB is the only annual BJCP competition that SNOB hosts. In tandem with the Society of Akron Area Zymurgists "Wizard of SAAZ" competition held in late Winter/early Spring, SoB is an opportunity not only for individual medals and valuable feedback but also for our club as a whole to reclaim the coveted Cuyahoga Cup. The Cuyahoga cup is a trophy that is awarded to the club (SAAZ or SNOB) that is the most successful (it's a point system based on medals awarded) at either SoB or WoS. In my 1.5 year tenure as supreme overlord of SNOB (I actually just run the meetings) we have yet to bring home the cup. Historically we have done quite well against SAAZ, but for the past 3 competitions we've come up short. Your entry could be the one that puts us over the edge! Please put in the time, research, and effort to bring your very best beer to the competition. If you are a new brewer, please don't be shy about entering, even if all you are expecting in return is quality feedback from an experienced judge. We will be announcing the registration/entry submission date shortly, so please pay attention in the meetings, newsletters, and on our Facebook group page. We will have an entry cap. Once the cap is reached, you will no longer be able to submit entries to the competition. You should already be brainstorming your recipes and possibly even brewing/conditioning your lagers, ales, ciders, and meads in preparation for the competition. Don't wait until it's too late!

Cheers, Andrew

SNOBs Night Out

August 14 6:30PM

Saucy Brew Works, 2885 Detroit Avenue, Cleveland, OH

Night Out Notes: Saucy's Happy Hour pricing is $1 off beers, they're going to reserve the upstairs lounge area for our group to congregate. There is a separate line for food and a line for beer/drinks.

Heinen's and Platform Beer Co. are teaming up for the Second Annual Bragging Rights, a home-brew competition. Last year, SNOB Greg Irving was the winner. For info on the competition and how to enter click here. Drop off deadline is August 30th.

The Cleveland Oktoberfest (from Paul Shick) is once again holding its Microbrew Competition on the Friday of Labor Day weekend, September 1st, starting at about 6:30PM at the Berea Fairgrounds. I hope that you'll be able to help us out again.

We're expecting about 80+ entries this year from roughly 20 breweries around the region, so my hope is to run about 10 panels of judges. As in years past, we'll be using "mixed" judging panels of experienced judges (BJCP and/or professionals) with local media celebrities. This makes for a more relaxed atmosphere than we get at most competitions. I'll be registering the competition with the BJCP shortly, so those of you who care about such things will get points.

I can promise you some good beer, good food and good music – all together, it should be a very fun and relaxed evening.

I have no idea if Paul still needs more volunteers but feel free to approach him if you'd like to help out.

Mark your CALENDARS!!
SNOBtoberfest Campout in Hinckley is on the horizon!
September 22nd-23rd is only a heat wave or two away. If you've never been, you should come on out to the Brooklyn Exchange Cabin in Hinckley for the day or all weekend.

BYO Magazine is trying to gauge interest in peoples and clubs interest in Brew Camps, rather than me speculating, if you wish to, feel free to contact them with interest.

Hey Mark,

Sorry to bug you, but was trying to follow up with a few clubs to elicit some opinions. So we've got a Boot Camp coming in November to Indianapolis. After seeing several clubs attend our last Boot Camp in Santa Rosa, CA, we thought it would be good to try to incentivize more clubs to attend. So not sure if you've seen the $25 off promotion we're offering to clubs...but I haven't heard a peep in response. So just trying to track down some thoughts from clubs that I have worked with in other areas. Does this promotion seem like something of interest? Would love to hear any other opinions you or members may have about it.

Cheers!
